

PUBLIC HEALTH INTERNSHIP OPPORTUNITY

Immigrant Health & Cancer Disparities

Towards Equity in Health

The Immigrant Health and Cancer Disparities Service (IHCD) at the Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center (MSKCC) is currently seeking interns to assist in its community health fairs.

IHCD regularly organizes community health fairs, in partnership with various community-based organizations around the city, to provide free health screenings, access to low-cost health insurance, health education resources and workshops, linkages to health care, and various other social services.

This is a unique opportunity for those who are interested in immigrant health and community-based participatory research to work directly with community members and passionate health advocates and providers.

If you are a undergraduate/graduate (pre)medical, nursing, dental, radiology, psychology, physician assistant, social science or public health student interested in participating, please send an email to PrasadL@mskcc.org. Please attach your resume and brief cover letter outlining your interest, weekly availability and foreign languages you speak. Thank you, and we look forward to hearing from you!

PUBLIC HEALTH INTERNSHIP OPPORTUNITY

The South Asian Health Initiative (SAHI) at the Immigrant Health and Cancer Disparities Service (IHCD) is currently seeking interns for its exciting community-based participatory research projects.

This is a unique opportunity for compassionate and dedicated undergraduate/graduate (pre)medical, nursing, dental, radiology, psychology, physician assistant, social science and public health students to work directly in the field with South Asian communities and immigrant health researchers in conducting community-based participatory research.

If you would like to learn more about our projects and how to get involved, please send an email to PrasadL@mskcc.org. Also, please attach your resume and a brief cover letter outlining your interest and any South Asian languages you speak and read/write. Thank you for your interest, and we look forward to hearing from you!
