

New York City
Food Policy Center

CUNY SCHOOL OF PUBLIC HEALTH
AT HUNTER COLLEGE

Food Policy for Breakfast Seminars Series

Bees: Global and Local Influences on our Food Supply

Panelists

Andrew Cote, Beekeeper and Founder of NYC Beekeepers Association

Jennifer Sonntag, Beekeeper at National Resources Defense Council

Nadia Johnson, Food Justice Coordinator at Just Food

Markus Imhoof, Director and Writer of film More than Honey

Thursday June 13, 8:30 – 10 AM* The Roosevelt House Public Policy Institute at Hunter College

47-49 East 65th Street (Madison and Park)

RSVP here

* Speaking starts promptly at 8:45

Bees contribute to approximately 30% of the food we eat.

Join the NYC Food Policy Center and a panel of experts as we discuss the importance of these insects and the potential impact of their widespread death (colony collapse disorder) on the global food supply, urban agriculture, and environmental sustainability.