

ASTHO, Food Marketing Workgroup, and NPLAN present...

State and Local Policy Options to Support Healthy School Foods

June 13, 2013

3:30 – 4:15 p.m. EDT

Part of the 'What You Need to Know to Promote Healthy Eating in Your State!' webinar series.

Register here: <https://www4.gotomeeting.com/register/717865375>

The passage of the Healthy, Hunger-Free Kids Act in 2010 represents a significant step forward in our nation's effort to provide all children with healthy food in schools. Over the past year, schools across the country have been working hard to implement strong national nutrition standards for school lunches, and in the coming years schools will also begin implementing updates to breakfasts as well to snack foods and beverages. While these national updates are an important step, schools need support from state and local advocates, policymakers, health officials, and others to ensure that all school nutrition environments are healthy for students.

Please join us on June 13 at 3:30 p.m. EDT for a webinar exploring state and local policy options to support healthy food in schools. We'll also provide an overview and update on national efforts to improve school foods, and hear from state health officials in Kentucky who have successfully worked with schools to support healthy nutrition environments.

Speakers:

Sabrina Adler, JD; Staff Attorney, ChangeLab Solutions (Moderator)

Jessica Donze Black, RD, MPH; Director, Kids' Safe and Healthful Foods Project, Pew Charitable Trusts

Hannah Jones, Nutrition Policy Coordinator, Center for Science in the Public Interest

Victoria Greenwell, BSW, MA; Coordinated School Health Administrator, Kentucky Department of Health

Jamie Sparks, MA; Coordinated School Health Project Director, Kentucky Department of Education