

Interested in becoming a volunteer in a hospital setting?

The Asian Health Institute of New York Methodist Hospital is currently recruiting new volunteers to join us in bridging the gap of communication between Asian patients and medical staffs.

Volunteers will serve as Navigators by directing patients to designated locations within the hospital. Volunteers will be exposed to and translation for procedures in the cardiology department, endoscopy department, radiology department, speech pathology department, neurology department, and many more.

Applicants must have the compassion to care about the patients and the commitment to volunteer for a minimum of 6 months. It is recommended that applicants are able to speak, read and/or write Chinese (Cantonese and Mandarin).
